

AAON to Ring The NASDAQ Stock Market Opening Bell

TULSA, OK (October 26, 2018) - AAON, Inc. (NASDAQ: AAON), a global leader in the design, development, and manufacture of heating and cooling products, announces it will celebrate its 30th anniversary as a public company by ringing the opening bell at The NASDAQ Stock Market.

"We are very proud of our 30 years of success since becoming a public company," noted Norm Asbjornson, CEO. "Over our history, AAON has maintained a business plan focused on total owner value by offering an increasing breadth of customizable products, with attention to quality, energy efficiency, serviceability and life expectancy. As we look back over this important period in our history, our success could not have been achieved without the continued contributions of our employees and sales representatives who are committed to providing HVAC products of the highest quality and performance. We thank the employees and sales representatives for their contributions and for the role they will play in our future success."

The participation of AAON in the opening bell ceremony will be aired live on October 29, 2018 at 9:15AM (Eastern Time) at <https://livestream.com/nasdaq/live> and on the NASDAQ MarketSite Tower at 43rd and Broadway in New York, NY.
